THE ART OF PARTICIPATORY LEADERSHIP

Leading together in complex times

Why and How could Participatory Leadership make a difference?

You are warmly invited to come together with others in learning and experiencing a new way of being and doing together - The Art of Participatory leadership. This is a 3-day training that offers simple and powerful approaches for showing up with authenticity and respect, and to co-create together the change we want to see in ourselves, our communities, our organisations and our world. Also called the Art of Hosting and Harvesting conversations that matter, this approach offers participatory models, processes and practices to help us stay connected and heartfelt as we work with diverse groups and opinions, take effective action to solve complex issues, and navigate uncertainty and change. It is an approach that is gathering momentum internationally as an effective way to bring people together as equals and access our collective intelligence.

Grow your ability to make a positive contribution as a leader, an organizer, a manager, an employee or a citizen in these challenging economic and social times. The three day workshop will provide participants with an introduction to a range of participatory approaches such as Open Space Technology, World Cafe, Circle practice and Appreciative Inquiry that can be used to develop a more inclusive approach to decision-making and general management issues. The event will focus on how to tap into the wisdom and resources of groups in order to create and facilitate powerful conversations that lead to useful and implementable results.

The India Art of Participatory Leadership training is part of a wider call that the international Art of Hosting community is responding to with trainings in other parts of India now and later. This particular training will be hosted by experienced practitioners from Europe, in co-creation with the emerging Indian practitioners.

Who can Participate?

We invite leaders, managers, politicians, entrepreneurs, teachers, social innovators, trainers and facilitators, community and youth workers. And for anyone who wants to experience a different perspective of leadership which shift our patterns of organizing and interacting, grounds meaningful actions, sets free other people's creativity and intelligence in order to achieve real involvement, better cooperation and sustainable results together.
