The Art of Participatory Leadership (AoPL, also known as the Art of Hosting and Harvesting Conversations that Matter) training offers participatory models, processes and practices to work with others, support meaningful engagement and authentic co-design, and work in complexity.
As we plan the fourth AoPL training offered to the New England region, with a mix of locals and regular visitors on our hosting team, we are inviting local practitioners back to refresh their skills and deepen their practice. We are also inviting new participants who feel called to the possibilities in the questions we will explore and the skills we will develop.

We warmly invite you to join us for this 3-day training event at the beautiful Echidna Gully, hosted by a team of experienced and emerging practitioners, and focused on nourishing our individual and collective capacity for collaboration. This training is being offered as a residential, accommodation options are available on the website and registration form. We strongly encourage you to consider staying at Echidna Gully for the duration of the training to embed yourself in the learning and opportunity.

We acknowledge Anaiwan, Kamilaroi, Dainggatti, Ngarabal, Banbai, Gumbainggier and Bigambul nations - custodians and first peoples of this country and surrounding countries. We pay our respects to their elders past, present and emerging.

What will we explore, learn & practice?

- The Art of Participatory Leadership as a core leadership framework, practice and skill set
- Simple, powerful, inclusive social tools such as: Circle, World Café, Appreciative Inquiry, Open Space Technology, ProAction Café, Designing for Wiser Action, storytelling and more
- Complementary models and frameworks including complexity theory and practice and Theory U
- Practices to support conscious, authentic, collaborative leadership and participation
- Real world application

Who is it for?

- Leaders and teams in healthcare, employment and community services, social entrepreneurs and business leaders
- Academics and students working in health, social sciences, environmental sciences, research and more
- Department heads and program managers and teams
- People working in engagement, collaboration and co-design spaces
- Community organisers, advocates and next generation leaders
- People who want to explore the power of collective creativity, intelligence, and collaboration to nourish their projects, communities, teams, and organisations

We look forward to welcoming you, your questions, your projects and your contributions.

Participation Fees

Our aim is to support everyone who wants to attend to be at the training. You decide what fee level is fair, what you have capacity to pay, or what is within your training budget.

We are also very open to a conversation about your capacity to pay - please be in touch.
