

THE ART OF HOSTING AND HARVESTING CONVERSATIONS THAT MATTER

WHAT GROWS WHEN WE COURAGEOUSLY
IMAGINE THE FUTURE OF EDUCATION AND LEARNING TOGETHER?

October 16-18, 2026
Peterborough, Ontario

Our education system is at a crossroads. As educators, trainers and learners we know that it is not responding to the world we live in.

Yet this same system also harbors pockets of resistance, hope, creativity and real possibility for something different. Dreams of what a space for learning could be if it were designed for connection, humanity, justice, inclusion, and creativity.

- What shifts when we approach education from 7 generation thinking?
- How might we embrace the outdoors as our teacher?
- What does a just and equitable education system look and feel like?

The Art of Hosting and Harvesting Conversations that Matter (also known as the Art of Participatory Leadership) offers simple and powerful participatory practices, patterns and processes to host generative conversations that can lead to coordinated action and positive change.

These approaches have been used effectively in diverse contexts worldwide to harness collective wisdom, encourage compassionate leadership and collaboration, and create better social and environmental outcomes.

ARE YOU?

- Helping the transition towards more inclusive, just, responsible systems of education?
- Passionate about creating spaces for learning in your community, your home, your school, your city?
- Exploring what happens when we create the conditions so that all of us can step into our full capacity as humans?
- Invested in the work of decolonizing learning spaces?
- Curious about the Art of Hosting?
